The Sign of Victory

LOUIS CARVALHO

In the name of the Associated Students of the University of Santa Clara, the staff of the 1954 Redwood takes great pride in dedicating this work to a true man of Santa Clara. Further, it is the desire of every member of the staff, together with that of the students they represent, that every recipient of this work will join them in this dedication • This work is proudly, and humbly, dedicated to Louis Carvalho, better known to his friends—and they are many—as “Louie.” • Louis Carvalho entered Santa Clara in 1950, and while here was the living embodiment of a great pride and trust in his Alma Mater, a pride and trust which produces a man who will ever be a credit to himself, to his friends, and to his University. • That school “spirit” which is so essential to the life of a University found vital expression, not in a sentimental exhibition of his emotions, but rather in a strong faith in the greatness inherent in his University. His interest and support so happily contributed to every University activity, together with his avid loyalty to the Mission School despite discouraging personal reverses, heartily endeared him to his fellow students. • In 1952 Louis Carvalho was forced to leave the University of Santa Clara. But the absence was physical. It has never been spiritual. Neither his loyalty nor his attachment to his friends at Santa Clara has lessened in these past two years. • The personal cross borne by Louis Carvalho was that of diabetes. He suffered from its ravages since the tenth year of his life, and was finally forced to retire from attendance here • Today at the age of twenty-three, Louis Carvalho is totally blind. Although he maintains residence in Hilo in the Hawaiian Islands, he is still, above all, a man of Santa Clara. Like many here before him, he has risen above what would have crushed the normal individual; inspired by the Christian acceptance of suffering, he has risen to the conquest of Braille and the study of radio; and his continued contact with this University has helped to make these achievements possible. • Recently, Louis Carvalho was informed of the proposed dedication of this work. He replied simply: There is nothing that has happened in my life or ever will that could give me greater pleasure and pride and humility than what you have done. • But it is not Louis Carvalho who should be pleased, or proud, or humble. Rather it is those who have had the opportunity and the privilege to know him or to know of his courage. It was a courage which enabled him, like his Model before him, to grasp his Cross as his sign of personal victory; a Cross studded with the gems of loyalty, hope, and faith; a Cross which raised him to the conquest of that which should have conquered him • To Louis Carvalho, then, we dedicate this, our work.

A Path Well Marked

To mould men after the Man-God, and thus form them to serve their fellow man, their country, and their God; this is the ideal and the purpose of the University of Santa Clara. • The staff of the 1954 Redwood has attempted to portray the pursuit of this ideal by the men of Santa Clara. This book is directed toward the students and their life at the University. The art work, student life sections, and general theme are meant to reflect the students' progress in their quest for this goal. • Recently, a national magazine regenerated a unique manner of story-telling. The tapestries of old, with their pictorial presentation of life were reborn and found security in the modern miracle of photography. With this in mind, the Redwood staff has attempted to preserve the spirit of the Santa Clara of 1954 from the cobwebs of history and to provide a treasure chest of memories. • The recollection of old classmates, associations that have withered with either time or fate, are stepping stones well worth retracing. The appreciative recognition of the professor who proved himself human and realistic after all, the remembrance of those cold, yet fruitful mornings in the Mission Church, those sleepless nights of Nocturnal Devotions, the noise in Kenna and the incessant plunking of the ping-pong ball in Walsh, the banquets, the trips to Santa Cruz, these are all the things that make Santa Clarans a part of Santa Clara. These are things that a yearbook should embody. These are the things that we have attempted to preserve so that these pleasureable moments of the past may live again as vividly as they did in Santa Clara of 1954.

President's Message

A Parting Word to the Graduates

High on the list of sacred duties to which a man must hold himself bound before men and God and himself is that which follows upon the benefit of a college education—THE PUBLIC DUTY OF EDUCATED MEN parallels their private gain in being educated. The wider, deeper world you now know both challenges and equips you to widen and deepen the lives of the men and women you shall come to meet. You have been given the Vision and the voice; duty now calls you to speak throughout the land.

Fond parents, relatives and friends, then, are not far off when they look upon their graduate with expectant eyes and hopeful hearts; rather they are close beside the level-eyed Christ whose words still greet the new graduate; "To whom much has been given, much will be required." It is so at every growing stage of life, but at college graduation that truth takes on vibrant meaning, because the Youth becomes the Man, and enters upon the opportunity and the power to repay.

I need not recount the sources whence came to the graduate his gift of an Education; those sources are the combined forces of the Great Voices of the Past, of the Faculty and Counsellors who made those Voices intelligible in the present, and of the Parents and Strangers who brought you, under God, to the synthesis of the Voices and the Faculty, to your Alma Mater. This REDWOOD, and the years to come, will recall and remind you of their great contribution.

It is for you to write a vaster and more meaningful 'REDWOOD' — by word and deed in the arenas of your homes, your professions, your citizenship and your religion, to create the record of your returning Contribution. In God's Name you go to meet THE PUBLIC DUTY OF EDUCATED MEN, to the service of your fellow men, your country, and your God. You go with the prayers of Santa Clara!

Sincerely,

REV. HERMAN J. HAUCK, S.J.

Academic Vice-President

With the departure of the highly respected and little-appreciated Father Hynes from within these Mission walls, his post as Academic Vice-President was filled by the appointment of Father Joseph Diebels, S.J., formerly of University of San Francisco. An alumnus of St. Ignatius High School and the Novitiate at Los Gatos, Father spent three years at St. Ignatius as a scholastic before his ordination in 1943. Since that time he has experienced three years of graduate studies in Theology at Woodstock College, Maryland, and seven years service at University of San Francisco. Presently engaged as Director of Admissions and Coordinator of the University Faculty, Father Diebels has already endeared himself to the Santa Clara and may be assured of his wholehearted cooperation.

Vice-President of Student Activities

For the past fourteen years, Father Raymond J. Kelley, S.J., has been a member of the Society, and for two years a member of the faculty of Santa Clara as Vice-President, in charge of student activities. As we all know from personal experience, Father Kelley rules with a rather able hand over all student disciplinary matters and thus is best known for this field of action. Yet, this is only one of his many daily duties since he handles all extra-curricular activities as well as acting as guide for the student health committee, student placement group, and the student resident problems. In addition, he has a position on the intercollegiate athletic council.

As a result of these many and varied duties, a mentally and physically worn out yet perseverant servant of God closes his office each night at ten-thirty. We, therefore, owe our respect, admiration and gratitude to our social and spiritual leader, friend and moulder of men.

Deans

CHARLES J. DIRKSEN
College of Business Administration

After taking a year's leave of absence to instruct at the Harvard Graduate School of Business, Dean Charles J. Dirksen returned to resume his former duties at Santa Clara. He brought with him new and progressive concepts and techniques in administration to insure that Santa Clara's Business School will continue to furnish well-qualified men to the business scene.

JAMES A. KING, S.J.
College of Art and Sciences

Reverend J. A. King, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, once again brings to the fore his vast experience in guiding the fortunes of the students in the College of Arts and Sciences. Those with whom he has contact fully appreciate his farsighted and prudent counsel which has aided so many in their search for the liberal education.

BYRON J. SNOW
College of Law

With the appointment of Dean Edwin J. Owens to a Superior Court Bench, Byron J. Snow became Acting Dean of the Santa Clara Law School. The Law College indeed lost an inspirational educator in Dean Owens but gained a man youthful in age and spirit, and one truly capable of carrying on the high tradition of scholarship and fraternity which so typifies the College of Law.

College of Engineering

Dean Sullivan, a highly respected educator, has strived incessantly for the past 42 years to gain for Santa Clara's Engineering College the prominent position it holds today. The quality and the record of the graduates of the college well reflect the excellent training made available to those under Dean Sullivan's competent direction.

Student Congress

Twice a month, in the Moot Court of Bergin Hall, the representatives of the men of Santa Clara meet as members of the Student Congress. Acting under a new constitution which allows for a larger representation of the student body, this Student Congress controls all the activities and social events of this campus.

As the hub of all university life, this legislative body has full authority and, as such, sets the precedents that will guide those who are to follow. The added representatives from each class and the individual colleges have extended the influence of the student body in this Congress, empowered as it is with the assignment of all funds allotted to the A.S.U.S.C. During the past year, such responsibility found able shoulders to rest on in such men as President John Vasconcellos, in whom this University takes justifiable pride.

Student Advisory Board

Every campus organization owes much to the Student Advisory Board. To be sure, every university unit stands beholden to this group, made up of seniors from the four colleges, for whatever new blood flowed into its veins.

Delectably enticed by their first taste of university dining at their initiation barbecue, the freshmen continued to enjoy the guidance of various senior advisers throughout the year, that is to say, until adjustment was completed. Questions concerning studies, possible courses, clubs and organizations, and even the idiosyncrasies of some temperamental teachers, together with the answers (when possible), integrated the new Frosh with their new surroundings.

The growth of this organization and its success in 1954 should act only as a stimulus to the development of an even more solidly united student body in 1955.

Student Court

The judicial power of the A.S.U.S.C. is currently vested in the Student Court or in any inferior courts that this court deems necessary. A Chief Justice and four associate judges handle the judicial affairs for each academic year. These men are elected from among ten candidates who are selected by a committee of students designated by the Vice-President of Student Affairs. Our present bench seats George Martin, a senior, as Chief Justice, with Mike Smith, Bill Olson, Herm Carmassi, and Joe Hester as his associate judges. Good standing in their respective colleges is required for each member, and three upper division students is mandatory. The Justices are elected at the general student body election in the spring semester, and their duties include everything from judging beauty contests to deciding cases of discipline that have been referred to it by the Executive Committee or the Vice-President of Student Affairs.

Following in his father's footsteps.

Famous last words: wake me up for 6:30 Mass, would ya, Fred?

Red hot.

Curtain call.

All set for tonight's escape act.

Sure Father, 12:15.

Catchin' up on the news.

Whew . . . what a long night.

College of Law

Dean Edwin J. Owens

On Sept. 14, 1953, Governor Earl Warren commissioned Dean Edwin J. Owens as Judge of the Superior Court of Santa Clara County. The students and the University administration experienced the inevitable conflict of pride in his highly deserved recognition and regret for the loss of such an outstanding Dean. He had served as Dean since 1933 bringing distinction to himself and the College of Law.

On the evening before being sworn in, the Student Bar Association sponsored a testimonial dinner honoring Dean Owens. This dinner was attended by the students and faculty of the College of Law and a presentation was made of a handsome desk set. Such a small remembrance of Dean Owens' service to this University and to its members, of the credit that is forthcoming to any administration of which he is a part, and of Dean Owens' upstanding character, carries with it the congratulations of the whole student body.

Legal Life

The need of men trained in law has always been great, as is disclosed by any review of the rolls of our chief executives, cabinet members, congressmen and state legislators, administrative officers, directors of public and private corporations, and leaders in all projects, to which the social, political and economic life of our people is related.

Since 1933, the Law College at Santa Clara has endeavored to fill this need under the leadership of Dean Edwin J. Owens. However, upon the honoring of Dean Owens, by Governor Warren, with a commission as Judge of the Superior Court of Santa Clara County, Professor Byron J. Snow, a highly regarded member of the faculty since his graduation in 1950, was appointed Acting Dean.

The most notable achievement of the University's law school may be awarded to the five members of the Class of 1953 who took the October, 1953 bar examination and passed, obtaining for Santa Clara the honor of being the only California college attaining a 100 per cent standing. Further, since the Student Bar Association was first organized in 1948, the Santa Clara chapter has become a charter member in the American Law Student Association, the student equivalent of the American Bar Association.

The Campbell Lecture Series, one of the most active movements of the Liaison Committee, occasioned the opportunity of hearing Mr. N. P. Menard, District Attorney of Santa Clara County, and also R. W. Bachman, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In a well-knit talk, Mr. Bachman presented a balanced picture of the F.B.I., an organization widely written about, though generally misunderstood. In addition, the exceptional brilliance of Mr. Witkin on the rostrum highlighted his criticism of the treatment of legal procedure by the law colleges.

The Moot Court provided the scene, during the past year, of vigorous intra-school competition, honors being extended to the outstanding individual speaker, George Strong, and also to Edward Panelli and Robert Blake, together with Walter Shimoda and Willard Campbell as the foremost teams.

Though necessarily limited in their social events, the men of the law college took part in a semiannual golf tournament and played a high caliber of softball. Also, in the sports spotlight, the "Legal Eagles" pounded their way to the Intramural division playoff only to be edged out after a hard-driving game.

Throughout the year of 1954, the esprit de corps and unity between the law students and faculty was one of the outstanding features of the College of Law.

B. A. A.

The Business Administration Association can view with satisfaction the activities of the year of 1954, successfully brought to completion under the able guidance of President Dick Pera. Though designed to serve the business students primarily, its social program and many services have benefited the entire student body. In regard to the business college, the organization was able to bring representatives from Remington Rand, Watson and Mehan Industrial Machinery Company, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph. In the fall, panel discussions added variety to the businessman's schedule, as did an all-day field trip to the Emporium in San Francisco.

Inaugurating the first annual "Memorial Ball" in lieu of Santa Clara's dropping of the gridiron sport, the society was sponsor of a dance that might have occurred after the initial football game of the season. Another addition to the social calendar was their always popular B.A.A. Dance held in October in the Empire Room of the St. Francis Hotel. Finally, the spring semester found members, guests, and faculty sojourning in the nearby hills of the East Bay at Hidden Valley Ranch for the annual B.A.A. picnic barbecue.

Proud of its record of achievements in both the social and business fields, the B.A.A.'s varied contributions to Santa Clara's campus life gave added impetus to the full development of the Santa Clara man.

The College of Engineering has been and promises to continue to be a source of great pride for everyone connected with Santa Clara. The development of this branch of study has been enlivened by three organizations, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers (A.I.E.E.), the American Society of Civil Engineers (A.S.C.E.), and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (A.S.M.E.).

Of national scope, these groups have become the chief font of information on the latest developments in electrical, civil, and mechanical engineering. Nationally published periodicals such as Proceedings of the A.S.C.E., technical movies, field trips, and the annual meeting of the West Coast branches of the A.I.E.E., have produced the well-informed engineering student of Santa Clara.

I. R. C.

During the academic year, Santa Clara's International Relations Club has been extremely active. Members have had the privilege of hearing representatives from our own country as well as those from foreign nations on the most critical and up-to-date topics. This has been the aim of the organization, to encourage and inform the students in regard to current domestic, national, and foreign political events.

Under the direction of Father Patrick Donohoe, S.J., and with the student assistance from Joe Panetta and other officers, field trips have been taken to San Francisco that have greatly supplemented the club's activities.

Currently, the club has had the honor to hear from leading figures on the Trieste and Arab-Israeli questions. As one of the final projects for the school year, representatives were sent to the annual student-managed U.N. Assembly, which is made up of other leading I.R.C. groups in California.

Day Students Association

PETER TIERNAN
President

After consultation with their moderator, Father McFadden, and Father Kelley, the Director of Student Activities, the objectives of the Day Students Association was defined as the ultimate dissolution of the Association itself. This, obviously, was the long term project. Two things were seen to be necessary for the accomplishment of this end. First, unity within the organization itself must be attained so that, secondly, integration within the full orbit of student body activity would be possible.

As the first step towards these objectives, an autumn picnic was sponsored at the Pink Horse Ranch in the Rolling Hills of Los Altos, where swimming, games, refreshments, and dinner, one and all, found completion in a hay ride and dance. Later, during this past year, in cooperation with the Rally Committee, this group forwarded a Rally Dance which featured the selection of a Queen for the basketball season. Only once before had such a queen been selected, and never before under the guidance of the Day Students Association. Preceding the dance, the student production of "The Curious Savage" and a car caravan to the St. Claire Hotel prepared the participants for the music styled after that of Stan Kenton and Les Brown.

The Association further expressed itself in a banquet at the end of each semester and a planned Hawaiian Luau, held in conjunction with the campus Hawaiian contingent on the restful beaches of Santa Cruz. Throughout the year and in all of its activities the Day Students found able leaders in the persons of Pete Tiernan and Carmen Citrigno.

A small metal structure in the afternoon shadow of the Science Building houses the Santa Clara University radio station. Originally a project of the Physics laboratory, and promoted and directed by Father Fred Spieler, S.J., the station now broadcasts for three hours daily to upwards of seven thousand listeners, due, to a great extent, to the enthusiastic assistance of voluntary student personnel.

When AM stations lost many big advertisers to TV and gained countless small ones, and when AM educational noncommercial licenses proved impractical, KSCU became an FM station. Broadcasting by FM enabled KSCU to present good uninterrupted music taken particularly from the classical and operatic record library collected during the past twenty years by Father Baccigalupi. Because the FM station is non-commercial it can realize its aims in student training.

Ninety per cent of the work of KSCU, whether it be script writing, announcing, station management, or radio engineering, is done by trainees. Bill Badella, station manager, Hugh Barth, chief engineer, and Robert Johnson, program editor, constitute the station's staff. They are ably assisted by an indispensable group of writers, announcers, and technicians.

In the past, KSCU presented a four-play cycle by Shakespeare, a modern version of the Canterbury Tales, a cycle of Beethoven masterpieces, a Choral cycle and a Verdi operatic cycle. The future promises the same variety and quality to a more distant Bay Area audience, and also to listeners on campus, due to the addition of antennae and transmitters to the present equipment of our campus radio corner.

Nobili Club

Based on the cultivation of interest in and study of foreign languages, the Nobili Club experienced the energetic leadership of President Frank Borelli, who occasioned numerous activities throughout the year. Nor did the club limit itself in these activities to self-gratification but expanded its program to benefit surrounding Bay Area colleges and the University student body.

A presentation of an Italian scenic movie, highlighted by the presence of some Belmont visitors, refreshments, and entertainment, inaugurated the movement toward the encouragement of international understanding on campus. This was followed in February by a private dance with some visiting Bavarian dancers as entertainment for the members and their guests for the evening from the College of Notre Dame.

Subsequent activities such as a "spaghetti feed" at Belmont in conjunction with the Cabrini Club of that same school, the presentation of the British Academy Award Winner, "The Lavender Hill Mob," opened to all the student body, and an organization barbecue in May further substantiated the Club's position on campus. Credit for the successful year may be amply awarded to Frank Schober, program director, and Mr. Vari, group moderator.

Sodality

"To Christ through Mary"—this short yet important motto lends real significance to every activity undertaken by each Sodalist at the University. With this in mind, he strives to further devotion to Our Blessed Lady, in order that he might bring to every student the spiritual advantages that arise from a closer union with the Mother of God.

Active for almost one hundred years, the Sodality of Our Lady always has been one of the foremost organizations on campus. Its activities extend into every phase of the spiritual life of the student.

Prefected by Joe Clark and under the careful eye of Father Roger McAuliffe, S.J., the Sodality has enjoyed an outstanding year. Its various endeavors included the raising of funds to be used by missionaries in foreign fields, the daily and public recitation of the Angelus on campus, and an active campaign to rid the Santa Clara area of all indecent and immoral literature. They have also been actively engaged in the festivities of the Marian Year by their promotion of the daily rosary.

Their individual zeal has prompted fifty Santa Clarans to bring the basic principles of the Faith to more than four hundred local youths through weekly catechism classes. Love of God, devotion to Our Blessed Mother, and the personal worth found splendid expression in the activities of the Sodality.

Student life on the Santa Clara campus is centered around the Mission Church. This emphasis on the spiritual life of the student is a remnant of the tradition founded by the Spanish Fathers when they settled in the Santa Clara valley. In keeping with this fine tradition, the Sanctuary Society was established to assist at the various religious services which contribute so much to the students' everyday life.

Besides assisting at daily Mass, the members of the Sanctuary Society also participate in Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, the Way of the Cross, and first Friday Adoration. A secondary function of the society is to instruct fellow students in the prayers and rubrics of the Holy Mass.

The spiritual benefits and special indulgences are continually at hand for the members, who initially are required to pass a probationary period of one year. At the end of that year, the probationers are solemnly received into the society by the President of the University.

Pi Delta Sigma

"Scholarship, integrity, and diligence" make up the qualifications necessary for the honor and prestige of being a member of the Pi Delta Sigma, the Engineering honor fraternity on campus. This group proudly sports its insignia, and enjoys the fellowship and privileges that are granted it as an honorary organization. Formal membership in the way of a Certificate and a copy of the Constitution and By-Laws, finds its way into the grasp of such ambitious students as can fulfill the prerequisites of high grades and the initiation essay.

Alpha Sigma Nu, the Jesuit national honorary fraternity and equivalent of Phi Beta Kappa, represents the intellectual elite of each college. Their continuous drive in quest of knowledge through the year of '54 was a source of inspiration to their fellow students, for this deserving few were composed of both the self-made and the gifted variety. In addition, they represented all four of the colleges and so influenced to the greatest possible degree, the entire university.

A series of projects directed by chapter president Al Chanteloup transformed this once inactive organization into an influential student-reform group.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, though a comparatively young campus organization, has already earned its place on the organizational roster of Santa Clara's Associated Students House of Representatives. Eta Alpha Chapter, Santa Clara's branch of the national service fraternity, though only six years old, is part of an organization that has been growing steadily for thirty years, so that 260 chapters can now be listed from coast to coast.

Alpha Phi Omega is dedicated to service, and the fraternity members have been found ready and able to live up to this code of service. Within their roster may be found newspaper editors, executives of other campus organizations such as the Sodality, Mendel Society, and the Rally Committee. Of the many service projects completed throughout this year, the Student Bindex, campus tours for public school children, and ushering at various school functions, all contributed toward a better university and the socially minded gentleman.

RICHARD O'DAY

After four years of rapid growth, the Gamma Xi Chapter of the Delta Sigma Pi fraternity again closed a very successful year with a dinner dance at the fashionable and atmospheric Brookdale Lodge. Throughout the year, under the direction of Bill Wilkinson, this international fraternity enlivened the College of Business Administration by weekly forums that were guided by the remarks of successful business men from the surrounding area.

An initiation dinner, a lively barn dance at Almaden, and various field trips further broadened the program, not only of the fraternity but also of the university. The twofold purpose of adding to both the educational and social enjoyment of its members and associates may well account for this group's success.

Who's Who

The neophyte among the honorary organizations on campus. Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, experienced its initial installation at Santa Clara only this year.

Recognizing those students who excel not only in scholarships but are outstanding in leadership, participation in extracurricular activities, service to the school, and their promise of future usefulness to society, this nationally esteemed organization first came into the national scene in 1935, and has developed to the point where, today, it is the acme of scholastic Who's Who.

This small, yet distinguished group of Santa Clarans, was selected by a nominating committee composed of student, faculty, and administrative representatives as the most promising and productive few in the university. Recognition in this select clique is then, a small reward for a job well done.

Ski Club

Under the leadership of President Cliff McNamara and Vice President John Miggins, the Santa Clara Ski Club has grown in its three short years of active participation to be one of the most active clubs on campus and one of the most successful clubs in competition with the surrounding Bay Area colleges. Proudly sporting their parkas, Santa Clarans have made quite a name for themselves in the annual High Sierra interclub ski races held during the Christmas vacation.

Playing hosts to the young ladies from Holy Names College in Santa Clara's new ski lodge, Hoy Fillete, the club took part in the Couples race as well as the interclub trophy competition. On campus, Secretary Bob Chenu handled the entertainment for the many "snowless ski sessions" held on campus, while Treasurer Ed Tommy managed the funds of the organization.

Glee Club

From light opera to Mission masses . . . this very briefly describes the scope of the work of the University of Santa Clara Glee Club. One of the most versatile groups on campus, their yearly activities began with their participation in "The Student Prince," a light opera staged by the Santa Clara Youth Center in early November. The organization, upon request, then devoted considerable time to the learning of a new mass, the "Rosa Mystica," which was sung at the Golden Jubilee Mass of Father Crowley, S.J., on March 10. The Glee Club then turned its talents to the production of the annual University Variety Show, in which songs were featured that included everything from Broadway Blues to those of Gypsy origin.

Many of the members also took it upon themselves to further their theatrical experience by entering the "Mikado," another light opera staged by the Santa Clara Youth Center, and "The Waltz Dream," a musical sponsored by Notre Dame College at Belmont. The incentive apparent in all the members of this group can be attributed to the tireless work of its director, Mr. Rene Dagenais.

The Santa Clara

During the year, The Santa Clara became a more integral part of the University than it has been for some time. Under the editorship of Al Walsh, this campus newspaper reasserted itself in the form of complete coverage of University news and views including the sports, activities of a social nature, and the personalities, both on this campus and others.

Preserving the four-page form for the most part, Sophomore Tom Collins set up a front page that continued to be varied in nature, complete, and interesting. News, the people who made the news, and the life on campus always found fitting portrayal on the front page. Other staff writers who, guided in their contributions by the weather, the zodiac, and general inclination, nevertheless integrated their work to produce a paper that held an interest for all.

Above all, during the past year, the sports page of The Santa Clara came to the forefront under the guidance of Sophomore Bill Chambers, who put together a well-knit section of facts, predictions, and sports sidelights. Fits of energy combined with spasms of genius to publish the first Sporting Green of Santa Clara since 1949, a run-down on past Santa Clara "greats," and the men who now carry the spirit of Santa Clara down to the football field, into the pool, and onto a basketball court.

No small part of the success of this year's paper was due to Faculty Advisor Father Richard Roberts, S.J., and Moderator Mister Robert Taylor, S.J., who lent past experience and technical skill in guiding the enterprising staff of The Santa Clara.

The Owl

An undergraduate wit once commented that The Owl ought to rename itself "The Fowl—The Magazine That Doesn't Give a Hoot."

Be that as it may, The Owl occupies a unique position in the realm of collegiate publications, for it is one of the few remaining magazines of its genre that at least attempts to be literary.

Faced with the perennial problem of the apathy of its potential contributors, The Owl this year changed its status from a monthly to a quarterly. More diversified were its subjects; special issues were abandoned; a new format was developed; all with the student reader in mind. Such articles as those of Thomas Edwards on Roosevelt and that of Ramon Lelli on Jazz breathed new life into a corpus that was commonly considered to be in the last throes of death and decay.

With the optimistic view toward its contributors next year when Barry Holland will continue to produce the colorful covers of the past year, this staff urges greater student participation and the preservation of the magazine's high standards so that there may develop within this campus's boundaries, men who will be mature of thought, outlook, and expression.

The year of 1954 at Santa Clara University provided the staff of this Redwood with a formula as ancient as it is universal and as interesting as it is real. The movement of student life through residence hall, classroom, dining hall, and chapel; the sensible and seemingly senseless necessities involved in being a Santa Claran; that special group of men that make up this particular student body and who, after this year, will never be exactly the same; all of these are realities which have been in existence since man has gathered with the primary purpose of developing morally, socially, and intellectually. It is this element of the universal, combined with the added notes of Kenna Hall, the Science building, and the Mission Church that enables this yearbook to stand as a milestone linking the Santa Claran of 1954 with every student of life since history began. As part of this history, this yearbook may also act as a guide to the future development of men of this university.

A major source of pleasant meandering for this annual has been afforded by cartoonist Fred Ithurnburn. His drawings picturing the unpredictable Bronco has typified the Bronco spirit, together with the frantic frolics and frivolous foibles that occasionally find expression in the exuberant yearling. Tom Black, as editor of this review of 1954 has been the driving force that has prodded assistant editors, student writers, and associate organizations toward the completion of this chronicle of the 103rd year of the University of Santa Clara.

Senate

One of the oldest organizations on campus, and founded in 1857, the Literary Congress, the Philalethic Senate and the House of Phil-historians met early in September with a view toward retaining their high position among Bay area debaters. The Senate, composed of the more experienced upperclass-men, constituted the main force in the Northern California Forensic Association of which they were a member. Weekly meet-ing were scheduled with practice debates on controversial topics as part of the agenda, so as to cultivate poise and self-assurance on the platform. Throughout this torrid prepa-ration all eyes were focused toward the an-nual Foch debate with St. Mary's.

The House of Philhistorians, the lower chamber made up of the first and second-year men, took an active part in weekly debates with their interests centered on the annual full-dress debate with their "big brothers" of the Senate in the Ryland classic. This affair which was held in May, was the chief source of inspiration for these eager aspirants under the direction of Father Joseph Geary, S.J., in which they were to vie in this oratorical tussle. Every hour spent in preparation throughout the year could be accounted as part of that education that was to develop the intelligent man who could express himself clearly, persuasively, and interestingly.

Drama

Dramatic Arts Contest

*"Ah, Faustus, now hast thou but one bare hour to live,
And then thou must be damned perpetually."*

For a few moments last October, the dimly lit stage of the Santa Clara Ship became the study of Christopher Marlowe's Dr. Faustus, and the usually quiet, studious Art Hayes plunged himself so skillfully and forcefully into the character of the despairing, doomed Faustus that the announcement of his winning the William H. Leahy Prize for Dramatic Art was anticlimactic. His interpretation was superb. Second place in the contest was awarded to Richard Jonsen, for his pensive portrayal of Hamlet, while William Largomarsino took third place with a suspenseful rendition of Poe's Telltale Heart. The other contestants were Andrew Pierovich, Joseph Nicholas, John Kenneally, Charles Blaisdell, Joseph Fogarty, and Robert Shopes.

Owl Oratorical Contest

. . . And, five months later, in the Adobe Lodge, the same Art Hayes won the Owl Oratorical Contest with his serious, forceful oration on the theory of political doctrine. With this victory, Art became the only Santa Claran in recent years to win both contests. For the quiet dignity of his speech on Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Pierovich took second place. Other contestants were Salvador Liccardo, Peter Tierman, and Robert Windsor.

Clay M. Greene Players

In the spirit that has preserved drama at Santa Clara for 79 seasons, the Clay M. Greene Players endeavored to honor him for whom they were named, the famous playwright of the "Great White Way" and later of the noted Passion Play of the 1901 Golden Jubilee of this University.

This campus organization provides for all the business, technical, and dramatic work that is needed to open the curtain on a production. In just such style was the comedy of John Patrick, "The Curious Savage," produced under the direction of Mr. Ranney. In addition — a luxury not granted to Santa Clara dramatists for over a decade — the presence of females in the cast contributed a beauty necessarily lacking in past productions. It will only be through the continued backing of every member of the student body and the gratifying encouragement of the group moderator, Father James King, S.J., that the Clay M. Greene Players will be able to maintain their heritage.

Productions

The Curious

The "Curious Savage," by John Patrick, was presented to an enthusiastic audience on December 10th and 11th by the Clay M. Greene Players of the University at the University Ship. The main character of this capricious comedy, Mr. Savage (who has mysteriously changed from the Mrs. Savage of the 1950 Broadway production) was skillfully portrayed by Arthur Hayes. Betty Lou Passadori gave a wistful performance as Florence, and Ramon Lelli and Richard Jonsen were convincing in their respective roles as Dr. Emmett and Titus. The remaining female cast were students from San Jose State College.

The whole action of the play is executed in what is ostensibly a better-than-average insane asylum known as The Cloisters. Mr. Savage is committed to this retreat by his three scheming step-children who are planning to secure his fortune while he is locked up. He manages to thwart their scheme, however, and, in doing so, partakes of the assistance of an individual named Hannibal, a person that has been replaced by a statistic machine and has resorted to the violin, and a Mrs. Paddy, who enjoys turning off lights and reciting lists of things she hates. At the end of this engaging comedy of errors, Mr. Savage is depicted as reluctantly abandoning the asylum to face the harsher realities of life.

Wes Ruggles did an excellent job as stage manager, and everybody agreed that the set designs by Al Reid were superb. Mr. Rene Dagenais directed the music while Adele and Arline Oaks were responsible for the makeup. The whole play was excellently and smoothly directed by Mr. Donald Ranney.

Variety

"The Bronco Cavalcade," presented by the students of Santa Clara in conjunction with the college of Notre Dame, Lone Mountain, and Dominican, spectacularly climaxed a season of University theatrical entertainment. The Variety theme included dance routines, four orchestras, quartets, and extravagant production numbers. Ably directed by Mr. Donald Ranney and his associate director, Wes Ruggles, the Santa Clara Glee Club formed the backbone of the show under the leadership of Mr. Rene Dagenais. Musical medleys such as that of New York included songs from "Manhattan Serenade" to "Lullaby of Broadway," while "Romany Life," "Play Fiddle Play," and Brahms' Dance No. 6 constituted the Gypsy series. Of great interest was the repertoire of ballads embodying "My Hero," "With a Song in My Heart,"

Show

"When I Grow Too Old to Dream," and "People Will Say We're in Love."

Behind the scenes, Dick Crompton was responsible for the highly decorative sets designed by Mr. Ranney, while Lou Suza acted as technical advisor for the production.

Notable among the acts that won the heart of the audience was the "History of Modern Music," which portrayed the evolution of popular songs. Through the medium of a belabored Rip Van Winkle, many old favorites delighted the fancies of the reflective generations of the past.

The colorful sets, the integration of femininity and the seldom-heard soprano in the chorus, and the enthusiastic contributions of the orchestra could not but insure the success that characterized the Variety Show of 1954.

With a resounding blast from their blank-filled M-1's, a small group of snappy-looking young men, known as the Santa Clara Pershing Rifle Drill Team, publicized the existence of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Santa Clara during their halftime exhibitions at the University's home games. Under the leadership of Colonel Michael Buckley, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, and his staff of regular Army personnel, many R.O.T.C. activities were given added impetus.

A program that featured an accelerated training schedule such that the Corps drill parades were commenced in the first six weeks, brought about a much higher quality of drill in the spring semester. By this time each cadet was much more familiar with his duties so that the exercises on the drill ground made a member proud of his outfit. A much improved R.O.T.C. Band which boasted at least fifty members by Fall, provided a much brighter outlook towards the future.

The R.O.T.C. honor society, the Saber Society, continued to bask in the light of its purpose of furthering interest in the acquaintance of the cadet officers with military life. This group was honored with the presence of a recently returned prisoner of war, Lt. Colonel Kopischkie, who delivered a stirring, eye-opening talk. The Saber Society is composed of members of the advanced R.O.T.C. cadets and is ably led by Bill Wilkinson. The Society featured a Military Ball held at the Presidio of San Francisco which furnished an opportunity for the spirits of May to express themselves.

The Military Science department also furnished an opportunity for the students to compete in the Pistol and Rifle competitive matches with other schools as part of the Northern California Intercollegiate Rifle Conference. However, there is a much more important fact to keep in mind, and that is the fact that the opportunity to develop leadership ability and self-dependability, as well as serve that nation which is the source of all our freedom, is amply afforded by the Military Department of the University of Santa Clara.

KELLY OGLE

The Social Santa Claran

With coordination and cooperation as the keynote, this year of 1954 provided the men of Santa Clara with a complete and well-rounded social program. The Open House was acclaimed a complete success and there followed a steady chain of events, wanting only the students' support and participation.

Mixers, the traditional B.A.A. dance, the Engineers Ball, the Military Ball; together, they sought to provide the means so necessary for "the development of the whole man, modeled after the Man-God." Included, too, were the exchanges with various women's colleges, nursing schools, and Newman Clubs in the surrounding Bay Area.

A student, in the real meaning of the word, is one who strikes a balance between the social, spiritual and the scholastic. It is to the credit of the Social Committee of the University, under the direction of Kelly Ogle, that an opportunity for this development was provided for every student.

Lost in this desolate scene of a haunted gridiron are memories of men vying for individual and team honors; men sweating to gain fame and prestige for their respective schools by the brilliant play, spirit, and sportsmanship that so characterized the American game of football. Students filling the crowded stands to view colorful pageantry; men and women chanting the name of their Alma Mater with emotion and elation; old grads looking back on their college days with memorable pride; all this can be seen woven into the shroud that now covers a sport which once brought Santa Clara to national prominence but now lies buried in a pit of mournful reminiscence.

We of Santa Clara feel the loss of this exuberance and spirit of which we are no longer a part. Through the years football had become a basic part of our school life just as it had with every other university. Not to know the spark that this sport brings to a campus; not to feel that thrilling anticipation and excitement of the opening kickoff; not to possess that pride which a successful Saturday afternoon brings, has meant a loss of something inherent in Santa Clara that many dare not admit.

Yet we have memories. Memories of Pabligia, Schiel and Casanova; of Falaschi, Pellegrini and Haynes. To others, these are just names in the past, but to Santa Clara men, they are football. These are men who carried the banner of the Bronco to every corner of the country. These are men who will characterize the spirit and fight of the mission-town school until we can once again cheer our charging lines and churning backs. We were a fighting team that played to win. On another day we will fight and win again.

Rally Committee

JOE MURPHY

With the abandonment of football at Santa Clara went many of the traditional fall activities. The Rally Committee, an organization virtually synonymous with the autumn sport in the past, found itself without a number of its usual duties. However, under the capable chairmanship of Joe Murphy, the committee proceeded to undertake a number of new projects. One of these was the publicity service offered to any campus organization desirous of it.

When the basketball season got underway, the Rally Committee was on the job to maintain order in the rooting sections. After almost a full semester of relative inactivity, Bronco enthusiasm was straining at the seams. The basketball games became the logical outlet for this stored up energy. The committeemen succeeded for the most part in directing this enthusiasm into its proper channels.

A car parade and coronation dance highlighted the committee's activities during the cage season. Betty Smith, Spartan coed, became the first Basketball Queen in Bronco annals. The success of these ventures was in large part due to the efforts of Wes Ruggles, Jerry McGrath, Don Tarvid, and Joe Ferguson among others.

Block "SC"

Santa Clara's absence from participation in Inter-collegiate football during the past year had a substantial effect upon the membership of this perennially outstanding organization. However, under the more than capable leadership of Bill McPherson, the society was able to maintain its position as one of the most active organizations on campus.

Basically an honorary society, the Block S.C. rendered valuable assistance in maintaining the high student morale that is so predominant at Santa Clara. The organization undertook many programs and accomplished them in the fine manner that is so indicative of the Santa Clara athlete. The most noticeable of these activities was the group's participation in the freshman orientation program and the regulation of student parking on campus.

A vote of thanks is due to the Block S.C. for preserving and passing on the Santa Clara spirit and aggressiveness that is a traditional characteristic of the Bronco yearling.

COACH BOB FEERICK

Coach Bob Feerick

Guiding the Broncos on the road to national prominence for the third straight year was amiable Bob Feerick, one of Santa Clara's all-time cage greats and certainly one of the Pacific Coast's most successful coaches. With his basketball sense and know-how, he built the Mission Town quintet into a well co-ordinated unit that emphasized team play and featured a clever, aggressive brand of ball. In the tight spots he gave his team the added spark and determination that was to make a good club great. Not only is Bob Feerick a fine court strategist, but his magnetic personality and spirit have gained him the respect and confidence of his players and student body alike.

Varsity Basketball

Once again Santa Clara dominated the Northern California basketball scene, winning the California Basketball Association title for the second consecutive year. Good height, speed, and determination characterized Bob Feerick's 1953-54 crew. Amassing a total of 21 wins and 7 losses, the Broncos proved themselves one of the Pacific Coast's top teams.

This year's C.B.A. champs got off to the usual slow start, dropping three of their first nine games, but true to form, they went on to win fifteen out of nineteen during the remainder of the season. Early season difficulties were largely overcome when heralded Ken Sears found the range and the revolving door, merry-go-round offense began to function smoothly under the generalship of Don Benedetti.

The Broncos went east during the Christmas holidays, edging St. John's of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden, but dropping a decision to Temple University in Philadelphia. Stopping off at Oklahoma City for the annual All-College Tourney, the Broncos chalked up victories at the expense of Tulsa and Wyoming, but lost to Oklahoma A. & M. in the finals of the tournament. Returning home to the C.B.A. wars, the Broncos broke fast, winning their first five league encounters. Included in this string were two narrow victories over St. Mary's and U.S.F. Steady Jim Young, the Maryland sharpshooter, won both games with last second clutch shots after the Broncos had stalled for over three minutes.

The Mission Towners then took Stanford into camp in the only collegiate game to be played at the Cow Palace during the 1953-54 campaign. St. Mary's then gained some revenge by halting the Broncos for the first time in league play, but the Broncos bounced back the next night by routing U.S.F. The Don's highly touted Bill Russell had to take a back seat to Sears who dominated the board play and garnered 18 points, while teammate Gary Gatzert paced the attack with 20 markers.

Next on the schedule was the annual sojourn to the Hawaiian Islands where the Broncos swept the three-game series, dropping the University of Hawaii twice and University Motors once. Sears again spearheaded the offense, collecting a total of 80 points during the series. Returning home for the final round of C.B.A. play, the Broncos were rudely welcomed by San Jose State's Spartans who put on a fantastic exhibition of accuracy from the floor to hand Santa Clara its second league defeat. The Broncos came back the following week by walloping C.O.P., Jim Young showing the way by pumping in 32 big points, one short of the league record set by Sears earlier in the season against the same club.

St. Mary's then fell victim to a red hot Bronco squad that ran up 93 points in cinching the C.B.A. crown and setting a new league record. With the title already tucked away and the N.C.A.A. playoff in sight, the Broncos dropped an anti-climatic contest to U.S.F. in the final game of the regular season.

For the third straight year, the battling Broncos invaded the Northwest in quest of the Western Regional Championship. Featuring a solid front line of seasoned tournament veterans, the Mission Towners breezed past Texas Tech in the qualifying round at Corvallis. Herb Schoenstein, Jim Young, and Kenny Sears paced the Broncos in their 73-64 conquest of the Border champs.

In the semi-finals, the Santa Clarans disposed of the Skyline monarchs, Colorado A & M, in a manner that has become almost automatic in recent years. Unbridled and uncanny, the Broncos hit an even 50% of their floor shots and completely outplayed the Aggies. Employing the fast break with accuracy and finesse, Feerick's men capitalized on Young's tremendous performance and Sears' rebound work to post a 44-27 half-time lead. Schoenstein took it from there and the Broncos posted a 73-50 win.

With the pressure on, the C.B.A. kingpins took on the high flying Southern California Trojans, the P.C.C. champions, in the Regionals finale. Both teams played a deliberate game, emphasizing defense and board control and taking shots only when good opportunities were found. Mickey Mount, Sears, and Gary Gatzert did yeoman duty on the boards to hold off the powerful Trojans, but the high number of fouls called against them proved to be the Broncos' undoing. Southern Cal managed a 28-26 lead at the intermission and built it to an eight-point advantage in the third period.

DANNY BALL

From this point on, it was an uphill fight for the tiring Broncos. Sears, Mount, and Young, battling desperately for every point, headed a Bronc surge that put them within striking distance as the fourth quarter reached the dying stage. Mount increased the tempo and drew the Broncos abreast of the Trojans. Spectators, rooters, teammates were on their feet, screaming, as the game ended with the teams deadlocked at 58 points apiece.

Now the tension mounted in earnest. Sears and Young, playing like the tournament veterans they were, matched El Troje point for point, finally pulling ahead by three with less than a minute remaining. But the rugged Trojans refused to yield and tied it up. With seconds left, Sears put up what looked like a sure two points and the ball game on a driving lay-in from the right side, but the officials ruled it out on a steps call, and the first overtime period ended in another stalemate at 65-65.

Young Schoenstein and Gatzert went out on personals, Sears had four, the Broncos were clearly up against it. After the Trojans scored on a free throw, Feerick and the Broncos elected to play the "sudden-death" maneuver to the hilt. With the 9000 spectators holding their collective breaths, little Danny Ball and Don Benedetti stalled for four minutes, the idea being to work the ball in to Sears or to Benedetti himself for the last shot. With only seconds left, the Broncs went into the familiar weave, laid their cards on the table and fed the ball in to their ace-in-the-hole, but it was trumped, Sears found himself surrounded and could not get the ball to Benedetti. The game ended with the Trojans the victors by one solitary point.

ROGER V. HOY
Frosh Coach

The Bronco yearlings, playing this year under the guidance of Coach Roger Hoy, a senior from Eagle Rock, came to life in the latter part of the season to gain a tie with U.S.F. for the C.B.A. Freshman crown. The Colts, though always showing a wealth of potential, did not particularly impress during the early stages of the campaign. It was in this interim that they lost as many as they won, but they put on a strong stretch drive, winning their last six in a row to catch the Dons at the wire.

The Colts finished the season with a respectable 12 won, 7 loss record, scoring a total of 1132 points against their opponents' 1121. Individual scoring honors were taken by "Dead-eye Dick" Venezia, stellar guard, and pivot Ted Switzler, with 235 and 197 points, respectively. They were followed by 6'7" Rich Montgomery, who tallied 174 points while using his height to good advantage beneath the boards.

COACH CHUCK BEDOLLA

It was the season for change along the base paths this spring, and the varsity baseball setup took on new features and faces. Taking over the reins from Denny Heenan and Bill Prentice was young Charles "Chuck" Bedolla, class of 1950. An outfielder by trade, Bedolla starred for the Broncos under Paddy Cottrell in the 1947-1950 campaigns. After graduation, Chuck played one year of professional ball under Paul Richards at Seattle, and played service ball in the Navy with the Pensacola Flyers.

Except for returning veterans Gus Suhr, Ted Welp, Dan Modena, Don Cole, Ray Stanley, and Otto Schleich, Bedolla had to build from the ground up. Many new faces were found in the lineup when the Broncos opened their 1954 season by downing Alameda N.A.S., 10-6. Suhr was moved from his familiar first base post to second, and Jess Payan was installed at the initial sack. Welp patrolled the short field, while sophomore Chuch Longwello guarded the hot corner.

The Broncos featured an exceptionally fast outfield, with sophomores Herm Carmassi and Bill Carroll joining Schleich. Modena, the number one receiver, was backed by Phil Thompson, with Mike "Moose" Smith and Paul Gallagher providing reserve strength.

The pitching situation posed more of a problem. Aside from the veterans Cole and Stanley, Bedolla found his mound corps untried. Bob Laubacher, senior righthander, sparkled in several games, his top performance to date being a six inning, no-hit stint against the powerful Southern Cal nine. Southpaws Frank Murphy and Jim Bowen and hard-throwing Joe Clark rounded out the pitching staff.

Baseball

With the end of the basketball season came welcome reinforcements in the persons of pitcher Dick Simoni and infielders Don Benedetti and Dean Robinson. Although Cole, the bespectacled fireballer from Ely, Nevada, has proven to be the workhorse of the staff, Simoni should give the Broncos additional depth.

A 29-game schedule was on tap and the Broncos got off to a good start against collegiate competition by larruping U.S.F., 19-10, before running into trouble against Southern California in the Southland. As we go to press, the Broncos have an unimpressive record, having lost five of eight starts.

However, Bedolla looked to the future with optimism. With a few more games under their belts, and if the pitching holds up, the Broncos should come around. The Broncos are traditionally late starters, and were further handicapped by the weather which forced postponement of several much needed exhibition contests.

Santa Clara's Frosh horsehidiers looked for a successful season under the capable tutorage of ex-varsity mound star Pete Zasso. Zasso, a transfer from City College in 1951, has used up his college eligibility, but his performances under Bill Prentice's regime are well remembered. Pete was his club's workhorse, and in addition, came through in numerous pinch-hitting roles.

The 1954 Colts possess a wealth of potential, but have had their troubles in getting underway. The yearlings dropped their season opener to City College of San Francisco, much to the dismay of ex-C.C.S.F.'er Zasso. The Frosh displayed some unusual power hitting in this game, although C.C.S.F. ultimately prevailed, 9-7. "Lefty" Giffen, a smooth keystone guardian, poled out a grand slam homerun, while his running mate, shortstopper Frank Bouten, clipped in with another circuit blow.

The Colts were strengthened by the appearance of basket-ballers Dick Venezia and Lou Jenkins in baseball flannels. Jenkins made his presence immediately felt by belting a 375-foot homer in the 4-1 loss to California's highly regarded freshmen. Venezia, normally a shortstop, has been shifted to outfield duties because of the fine all-around play of Bouten at the short patch.

Zasso's crew was expected to gather steam as the season progressed. The Colts had a strong mound staff, with big John Adamo and Jim Kelly the starters and "Satch" Wilkins and Dario Della Maggiore in relief.

Zasso had a capable receiver in Walt Harris, and a close-knit infield in the persons of Bouten, Giffen, third sacker Tom Pearse, and first baseman Bob Besse. The picket line was manned by Pierre Nicholas, Will O'Connor, and the aforementioned Venezia and Jenkins.

Boxing came back into the University's sports limelight during the yast year. Responsible in large part for this up-swing was the new coach, Pete Fransich, who assembled a corps of mittmen that made a strong showing in the five matches and two tournaments it participated in.

After losing close encounters to San Francisco State (5-4), Stanford (5-3), and Chico State (6-3), the leather slingers entered ace Bill Wiswall, Dave Van Etten, and Waldo Conn in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate meet at Sacramento. Wiswall carried the Bronco banner to the semi-finals, while Conn and Van Etten bowed to a TKO and close decision, respectively. This same trio journeyed to the Northern California Intercollegiate boxing tournament, Wiswall and Van Etten advancing to and being defeated in the final round.

Wrestling

Student-coach Don Ornellas, the 135-lb. Bronco giant, again led the University Wrestling Team during its 1953-54 campaign. An impressive list of grapplers turned out for the season, including such great potentials as Jack Wilde, Bill Ross, Don Johnson, Vern Machado, Chuck Luchessa, Russ Bartoo, and Freshman Dick Campessi. Ornellas' dynamic leadership sent a rejuvenating spark into his proteges.

In spite of the losses sustained in the regular season matches to Stanford and San Francisco State, Ornelas led his team in the Far Western Tourney by capturing the blue ribbon in his division. In previous matches, Ornelas landed a second place spot in the Pacific A.A.U. tournament in San Francisco. Ade Eitner went on to tie up fourth place in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate matches at San Luis Obispo.

Soccer

With promise of a professional coach awaiting them next fall, the Santa Clara Soccer Club undertook an ambitious schedule this year, only to experience a somewhat disheartening season. The green Broncos' lone win of the campaign was an upset over highly touted C.C.S.F. by a 5-2 margin.

Such strong opponents as Stanford, California, and other Bay Area colleges fought hard to defeat the Broncos, led by playing coach Bob Iniguez.

Water Polo

The Santa Clara Water Polo team closed its season on a rather disappointing note, but showed great promise for the future. Although the poloists lost all but one of their ten contests, several were close tilts that could have gone in either direction. The lone Bronco win was an upset over the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

Dick Jonsen, with 18 goals, and Bob Williams, with 16 led the team in individual scoring and will be back next season. Graduating members were guards Dick Wood, student-coach Dick Vance, Charlie Luchessa, and goalie Cliff McNamara.

An unprecedented interest in the Santa Clara Rifle team was noted this year. This was in large part due to student enthusiasm in the intramural matches held earlier in the season. Due to the large turnout, a good corps of sharpshooters were picked for the squad.

Capt. Beaver's sophomore-studded crew participated in a number of postal matches, including Colorado A&M, Washington State, Kentucky, and Arizona. In league competition the Bronco gunners won their share against the likes of California, Stanford, San Jose State, San Francisco, and the Cal Aggies.

Jim Flood, Mike Raschko, Ed Driscoll, and Larry Fry provided a strong nucleus for the club that represented Santa Clara in the P.C.C. tournament at Stanford.

JIM ROWE

For the second consecutive year, the University has enjoyed a fine intramural program under the supervision of the Campus Intramural Committee. Under the able leadership of Jim Rowe and his assistants, Mickey Kelly and Dan Sullivan, the Committee strove to give the students the type of sports program desired. Though it was far from easy organizing, coordinating, and administering the program, their success can best be indicated by the fine turnout, keen competition, and overall enthusiasm displayed by the students this year.

The successful year was highlighted by the initiation of a special sportsday which facilitated intramural competition on an intercollegiate level. Planned and directed by Jim Rowe, the program brought together the colleges of the Bay Area for a day to determine the intramural kings in the various spring sports.

The student body owes the Committee a vote of thanks for its initiative and hard work.

Football

Intramural flag football's initial season proved to be a huge success. Some 500 energetic Broncos participated in the 40 team League organized by Jim Rowe, Bill Olson, and the ever-popular "Smitty."

The Senior Division was the best balanced of the League's four divisions. Three teams, Otto Schleich's Ottomatics, Gus Suhr's Billygoats, and "Pappy" Jordan's Koko-Head AC finished in a dead heat for the division title. The powerful Ottomatics, pride of the Engineering College, won the special playoff and went on to edge the Junior Division's Pistols and the Soph Wetbacks for the League Crown.

Among the more prominent nominees for the mythical All-League Team were Jim Stuart (Oddballs), Joe Murphy (Ramers), Carl Morabito (Wetbacks), Hugh Walker (Spartans), Chuck Leonhardt (Ottomatics), Walt Shimoda (Eagles), Gus Suhr (Billygoats), Joe Hester (Wetbacks), Lee Rianda (Koko AC), Ted Welp (Pistols), Chuck Lucchessa (Ottomatics), and Al Chanteloup (Koko AC).

Basketball

Some 300 Broncos, divided into 30 teams and playing in six different loops, opened intramural play in late March. The well organized league saw a change from past years in which the double elimination setup was used. The new system guaranteed each club a minimum of four games to play, with the upper division teams of each loop to meet in a postseason tournament to determine the intramural champs.

As league action got underway, several teams loomed as exceptionally strong contenders for the coveted tournament berths. The Tsetse Flyers, led by Jack Sanbrook, got off to a flying start in the Denver League, while rugged Joe Panetta and Paul Baldacci paced the Fat Man's Five to early season victories in the American League.

A powerful senior contingent, Ken Fay's Filthy Five, crushed its first two opponents to capture the top position in the Boston League. "Moby Dick" Olson, the Great White Whale, tanked 33 points to pace the Filthies in their initial win. Not to be overlooked, however, was the league's dark horse, The Vice Squad, headed by Capt. Bob McGlinchey and "Tuner" Kilty.

The leagues were generally well balanced, and though some teams got off to poor starts, competition was expected to stiffen as the season progressed.

Tennis

Volleyball

The Senior class again dominated intramural volleyball play this spring. Jim Rowe's Boppers headed the American League, while Jack Peters' Potters paced the National loop. Both clubs combined height and aggressive front-line play to capture the top berths.

Reggie Gile, "Geetus" Vaughn, and "Bobo" Olson gave the Boppers an almost invincible front line, while the Potters featured the all-around play of T. Doyle, James Young, and Leland Rianda.

Good as these clubs were, neither found the going easy. Such teams as the Septonic Sams, Spikers, and Ethereal Eight gave the Boppers a run for their money. The Sams were spearheaded by the play of Frank Laney and Mike McCormick, while Jerry Bohlander and Al Clark led the Spikers' assault.

Running a close second to Peters' Potters were the Linens, a soph outfit that boasted the determined play of Pete Murphy and Danny Sullivan. Next in line were Andy's Anteaters, a junior club led by stalwarts Andy Smolich and Les Moran.

Softball

As the hard fought basketball campaign drew to a close, some 500 Broncos turned to the diamonds for the opening of the softball season. Although no league games have as yet been played at this early date, the performances of the teams in exhibition play gave a good indication of what was to come.

Although several new frosh teams have shown promise, the Knights of the Round Table, a power-laden senior outfit, has been picked by veteran observers as the team to beat. Captained by the renowned Usz Zola, the Knights swept to nine straight Grapefruit League wins. Another senior club, the Dragon Fly Squad, paced by Willy Gleason and Dick Smyth, captured runner-up honors.

Other first division contenders were the soph Creatures from the Black Lagoon, featuring the power hitting of B. J. Sellars and the ambidextrous slants of Chuck Wiswall. The Men with the Banjos, a junior team, remained in the running on the strength of the fine all-around play of "Baby" Busch and Jules Arancio. Heading the second division were the Wild Ones, a dark horse freshman entry.

Handball

Bowling

Ping-Pong

Although dominated almost entirely by the Senior class, ping-pong competition was nevertheless keen. The rattle of the paddle and the patter of the bouncing ball has been continuous throughout the year, with all participants enjoying the popular game. Frank Jordan, Willie Morris and Al Chanteloup dominated much of the play for the Seniors while Mo Modeste, Jim McGoldrick and Jack Cheatham carried the Junior banner.

Golf

Sturdy adherents to the hardy sport of golf took to the links for intramural competition early this year. Because the varsity sport is limited in the number that can participate, these fellows welcomed the opportunity to display their skills on the links. Bob Draklich and Hugh Isola showed surprising finesse as they made the rounds, while Bill Allen and Fred Ithurnburn pressed them all the way.

The conception, inspiration and creation of a yearbook, and its ultimate completion are the result of many and diverse ideas and opinions. The editor of the book cannot claim all the laurels, for any degree of success whatsoever in the attainment of his ideal entirely depends on the help that he receives.
